Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group I, claims 1-14, in the paper filed September 22, 2003 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the product-by-process claims are limited by a particular process. This is not found persuasive because the the product themselves may be prepared by a materially different process, and thus would require searching areas not limited by the particular process set forth by Applicants.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Knowlton.

Knowlton discloses a process wherein soybeans are rolled (inherently causing crushing) and the oil is subsequently removed using physical pressure (col. 6), wherein said oil is then degummed, bleached, and heated (e.g. 464 F) under vacuum to remove free fatty acids (e.g. Example 2). Although Knowlton further includes heating the soybeans at the time of rolling with respect to a certain time and temperature combination differing from that of the instant invention (see Example 2), the overall specification of Knowlton does not restrict the time and temperature employed. Absent a showing of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have arrived at the particular time and temperature values as called for in the instant claims as a matter of preference depending on processing time desired, cost of heating, etc.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-14 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 2-17 of U.S. Patent No. 6511690. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant claims further call for heating of the soybeans to a broader temperature range and, at least with instant claim 1, with no time limitation. However, the particular degree of heating and the time determination therein would have been well within the purview of one skilled in the art, and it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have employed temperatures outside the range set forth in the claims of U.S. Patent No. 6511690, so long as the time employed would provide the same total heating effect. In addition, the claims of the instant invention are broader in terms of said soybeans being extracted using mechanical pressing whereas the claims of U.S. Patent No. 6511690 limit such pressing to that which inherently occurs during screw extruding. It would have further obvious to one having ordinary skill to have employed other pressing alternatives to screw extruding as a matter of preference depending on costs involved, availability of equipment, etc.
